"Breaking the Barriers, The Art of Iran", curated by Shiva Pakdel who is an artist and curator, is an exhibition in the heart of downtown Sausalito, at the Sausalito Art Center, holds an authentic and unique experience for everyone interested in art, in and around the Bay Area.

This exhibition features Persian artists from all ages and backgrounds and different mediums, It offers a look at the unseen sights of Iran and its culture. A blend of the past, present, and future of Iran's art is seen throughout the theme of this exhibition.

While having the goal to counteract the images that are shown by the government of Iran, these Persian artists are showcasing their art in all sorts of different mediums. More than 60 works will be on display. From old photographs showing the rare sights of Iran, their tribes and their attires, textiles, and ceramic works to artworks that speak to the current revolution taking place in Iran.

Woman, Life, Freedom, is the present theme mostly seen throughout this exhibition. With a clear message, these artists are trying to show their work that speaks for the people of Iran and their desire for freedom.

"Breaking Barriers" exhibition will be held until April 23rd, featuring additional artists for upcoming exhibitions such as, "The Sound of Persia" exploring music from different parts of Iran and presenting the award-winning movie, "No One Knows About the Persian Cats" which speaks about the repression of the underground musicians and their struggle.
